WC – Monday 3rd March 2024

Rachel lead our assembly, all about how important it is to share a meal with our friends and family, just like Jesus did with the Last Supper.

We were so lucky to have an author in school on Wednesday – Gareth P. Jones worked with us, shared his songs and ideas and made us all laugh out loud.

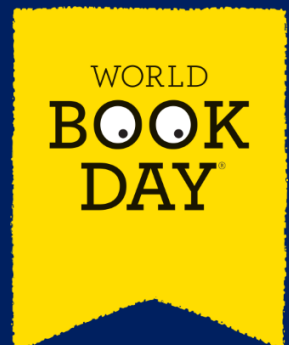

Message from Miss Young and Mrs. Perry,

We had such a lovely day with our author - Gareth P. Jones – what a super start to our World Book Day celebrations. Thank you to the PTA for organizing the event. They have also bought 6 of Gareth's books for us to put in the library – look out for the display when you next go in there.

We can't wait to celebrate World Book Day more, with dressing up and sharing our favourite books on Friday 8th March

This week at Moseley ...

- Mothers Day Service - Thursday 7th March, 2.30pm at St Mary's Church
- World Book Day- special lunch, Thursday 7th March
- World Book Day - Friday 8th March.

EYFS and KS1 news

This week, Reception have created their own maps of towns for Naughty Bus to visit. They added features to their maps, such as shops, car parks, playgrounds, swimming pools, a mosque, hospitals and a school. They drew roads and labelled their maps using great phonics knowledge, well done Reception for your hard work!

Year 1 have worked hard this week. We created journey sticks as part of our geography lesson, going into Forest School to find and attach items that represented the seasons.

In Science, we have been using all of our knowledge about the different animal groups to categorise them by their features; we thought about how they were different or similar.

This week, we will focus on Year 2

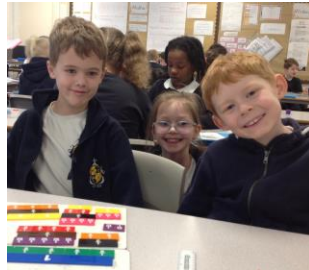

We absolutely loved our visit from children's author Gareth P. Jones this week! He read one of his stories to us, and we joined in with some songs too. Some of us even had our books signed by him, which was very exciting. In English, we have been learning about coordinating and subordinating conjunctions and how to use these in an explanation text about staying healthy. We also learnt about why Bessie Coleman is significant in our History lesson- maybe you could ask us why!

"I've enjoyed learning tennis skills in P.E. this week."-Benjamin

KS2 news

In Maths, Y3 have been learning about equivalent fractions and using fractions walls to help them to spot which fractions are equivalent. This week in History, we learnt about Boudicca and her army who tried to stop the Roman invasion. We created our own visual interpretation of what we think Boudicca might have looked like based upon evidence from a range of sources!

This week Year 5 explored the features of the Alps, learning more about its climate and biome. They also started planning their stop motion animation projects in computing.

Year 6 started learning about the circulatory system in science this week and worked in groups to make blood! We have also started planning our newspaper reports in English- why don't you ask us about the features of this genre?

This week, we will focus on Year 4

Last week in Year 4 week, we had our class trip to the Botanical Gardens. First, we took part in an amazing workshop, focusing on Amazon rainforest animals. The children got the chance to meet and handle some tropical animals such as hissing cockroaches, a bearded dragon and even a corn snake! We then took a tour around the gardens learning all about the plants that they have there, in particular, the tropical rainforest plants in their two large greenhouses.
